THE BAKER'S SECRET

Stephen P. Kiernan

INDIE NEXT PICK

AWARD-WINNING AUTHOR

"An emotionally satisfying and brisk narrative . . . [T]his is a gripping novel with a clever conceit."
— Publishers Weekly

A thoughtful novel set in a village in Normandy during the German occupation in 1944. It tells the story of the French resistance and how one person can give hope to many in the darkest of times. Emma provides her fellow villagers with physical things they need and most importantly hope and faith that one day things will be better. A title that will allow seniors to remember a time when they were young and remind us all that we can make a difference to each other.

CARNEGIE'S MAID

Marie Benedict

"... [an] excellent historical novel."
— Publishers Weekly

"... engaging." — Booklist

With captivating insight and heart, Carnegie's Maid tells the story of Clara Kelley, who could have inspired the great philanthropist Andrew Carnegie. A tale of mistaken identity featuring real people from history that readers will remember. A real treat for Downton Abbey fans and lovers of historical romance. A chance for readers to be whisked back to a more glamorous time and enjoy high society at the height of the 1800's.

THE RADIUM GIRLS THE DARK STORY OF AMERICA'S SHINING WOMEN

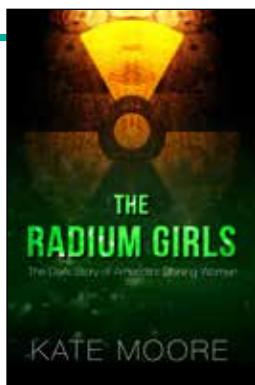

Kate Moore

NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLER

"... Moore's chronicle of these inspirational women's lives is sure to provoke discussion — and outrage — in book groups."
— starred, Booklist

The amazing true story of the young women who worked in the radium dial factories during World Wars I and II, whose courage and tenacity led to life-changing regulations, research into nuclear bombing, and ultimately saved hundreds of thousands of lives. A great story of strong women who had many of the same experiences of our senior readers, working in factories to assist in the war effort and helping to support families during the early 20th century.

NEWS OF THE WORLD

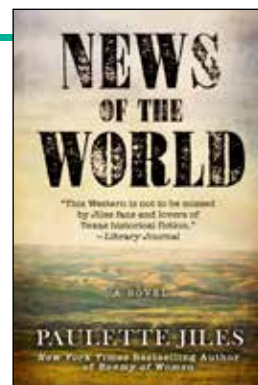

Paulette Jiles

NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLING
AUTHOR

NATIONAL BOOK AWARD
FINALIST

A story set in the aftermath of the Civil War when an elderly traveling news reader takes on the job of returning a young captive of the Kiowa Indians to her family in Texas. This tells the story of the arduous 400-mile trek and the bond that forms between them as they travel. An historical tale of the old west told from a very different point of view, that allows readers to discuss who is family, what we need to survive, and can we go home again.

CARNEGIE'S MAID

Marie Benedict

"... this volume should charm lovers of historicals, romance, and the Civil War period."

— Library Journal

Clara Kelley is not the experienced Irish maid hired to work in one of Pittsburgh's grandest households. She's a poor farmer's daughter with nothing in her pockets. But the other woman with the same name has vanished, so Clara is pretending to be her — if she can keep up the ruse. Carnegie's Maid tells the story of a brilliant woman who may have spurred Andrew Carnegie toward philanthropy.

BEST PRACTICES: CHOOSING GOOD BOOKS FOR BOOK GROUPS

After reading, making the book group selections can be the most fun a facilitator can have with the book group. And yet, this process can be stressful, controversial and even political for the facilitator. Books are inanimate objects that engender animated emotions.

How can some of these emotional biblio-minefields be avoided? Here are a few things for the librarian/book group leader to keep in mind while putting together the reading list.

You are the reading expert. You see a wider variety of books and likely a larger swath of book and publishing news than your book group. This makes you the expert and your group knows this! Even if they don't say it. They really do depend on your expertise to guide them to the books they should have on their radar. Thus, when suggesting titles for the list, your vote counts. Sometimes more than once and more than other votes.

Your group likes to read and they like to share their book suggestions. They want to impress their fearless reading leader with their knowledge. But your readers probably don't view the group they way you do. They see individuals who gather to talk about a book. You see this, too, but you also see a group personality. You recognize the individual reading tastes as well as the group reading tastes. Keep this in mind while selecting titles for the group. Solicit suggestions but remember that a group member will typically put forth a title she wants to read or has read and liked. Your job is to evaluate suggestions that fit with the group's personality and preferences.

Your group likes to talk (or I hope they do). Select books that generate conversation about characters, issues, and an author's intention. Select books that stir controversy. Book groups are one of the last safe places to have difficult conversations. If your group likes to talk about characters, consider Herman Koch's The Dinner. All of the characters are realistically flawed and hiding crucial information from the others. If your group likes to talk about issues, look at From the Memoirs of a Non-Enemy Combatant. A talented young immigrant comes to the U.S. to make a career in the fashion industry and is unintentionally caught up in a federal terrorist plot. If your group wants to talk about an author's intention and/or writing style, Claudia Rankine's Citizen: An American Lyric is a great choice.

Embrace your role as a reading taste-maker for the book group. Once you start the conversation, there's no telling where it will continue once they leave the safe space of the book club.

CUZ THE LIFE AND TIMES OF MICHAEL A.

Danielle Allen

"[Allen] uses her finely tuned talent to fold Michael's fate into the gathering storms of the U.S. criminal-justice system and Los Angeles' gang-related and racial turmoil. Both a searching, personal elegy and a sure-footed lamentation of the systems meant to protect us, this is a searing must-read." — starred, Booklist

In a shattering work that shifts between a woman's private anguish over the loss of her beloved cousin and a scholar's fierce critique of the American prison system, Danielle Allen seeks answers to what, for many years, felt unanswerable. Why did a precocious young man who dreamed of being a firefighter and a writer end up dead?

KAITE SAYS

If you read only one memoir this year, make it this one. It will be one of the most important titles to emerge from 2017 and belongs on everyone's reading list.

Like most memoirs, this one is tough to read, and it must have been as tough to write. Allen writes a searing account of a young man who wants to live a productive life and how all the elements in place to help actually hinder his progress. Her narrative style will pull readers along and her grieving portrait of a young man tragically lost so young will propel conversation among book clubs.

It is the type of book that should be available in every format and on everyone's TBR pile.

DEAR FAHRENHEIT 451 LOVE AND HEARTBREAK IN THE STACKS

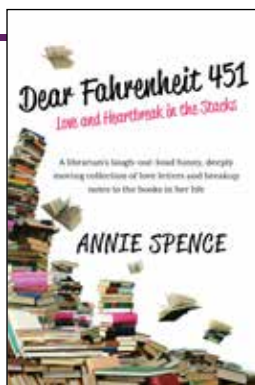

Annie Spence

"Dear Dear Fahrenheit 451, thanks for the lovely reminder of the ways we find ourselves in books." — starred, Booklist

Librarian Annie Spence has crafted a collection of love letters and breakup notes to the iconic and eclectic books she's encountered over the years. From breaking up with The Giving Tree (a dysfunctional relationship book if ever there was one), to her love letter to The Time Traveler's Wife (less about time travel and more about marriage) Spence's take on books is like the best of literature — sometimes laugh-out-loud funny, sometimes surprisingly poignant, and filled with universal truths.

KAITE SAYS

Admit it, you really want to know what your librarian thinks of all those books on the library shelves she's read (because she's read all of them, you know).

Here is public librarian Annie Spence to disavow you of the notions that librarians have read everything on those shelves or that they like everything in the library. Trust me, if there's something to offend anyone who walks into a public library, there's something to offend your librarians.

Spence is practicing "weeding" as she narrates her biblio-epistolary memoir, a task most librarians adore. Weeding means librarians get to revisit old favorites, rediscover hidden gems to give readers, and renounce those books that have been taking up coveted space on shelves the way outgrown prom dresses take up valuable closet space.

TO DIE IN SPRING

Ralf Rothmann

AN INTERNATIONAL
BESTSELLER

PICK OF THE WEEK

*"Spare and vivid, nearly cinematic.
... a spectacular novel ...*

Searing, haunting, incandescent:

Rothmann's new novel is a vital addition to the trove of wartime fiction." — starred, Kirkus Reviews

Distant, silent, often drunk, Walter Urban is a difficult father. So his son, curious about Walter's experiences during World War II, presents him a blank notebook in which to write his memories. Walter dies leaving only the barest skeleton of a story there, leading his son to fill in the gaps with what he can piece together of his father's early life.

Adam Sternbergh

BY THE EDGAR AWARD-

SHOVEL READY

*"Cleverly improvising ... Sternbergh

— starred, Booklist

A dusty rural Texas town, The Blinds is populated by criminals plucked from their lives. Their memories altered, given new identities and a second chance, these misfits don't know if they've perpetrated a crime or just witnessed one. But it's clear that if they leave, they'll end up dead. The Blinds is no sleepy hideaway. It's simmering with violence and deception, aching heartbreak and dark betrayals.

978-1-4328-4612-1 | $30.99 U.S.

Thriller | Releases 2/7/2018

Walter and Friedrich, two adolescent dairy farm workers in Northern Germany, are coerced into the Waffen-SS in the waning months of the Second World War in this powerful and poignant anti-war tale of rare sensitivity. Walter, introspective and passive, becomes a supply driver while Friedrich, bold and spirited, is sent to the front. The spare yet graceful lyrical realism conveys the harrowing horrors of war and resonates with themes of guilt and accountability. Rothmann elegantly illustrates the indomitability of humanity in the face of tragedy. For readers of The City of Thieves and The Book of Aron."

— Selector Bill Kelly,
Adult Programming Manager for the
Cuyahoga County Public Library

Calvin Cooper is the sheriff of The Blinds, a West Texas prison-like community that is experimenting with erasing the memories of its residents, both violent criminals and victims, in this propulsive genre-defying western/sci-fi noir. Philosophical questions about memory, evil and human nature are embedded in a multi-layered account of extreme violence that is as thought-provoking, and mind-blowing as it is action-packed. The irreverent dark wit increases the fun factor while the body count is matched only by the amount of twists and turns in this superb, highly original and cinematic entertainment. For fans of Cormac McCarthy and Westworld."

AN AMERICAN MARRIAGE

Tayari Jones

"Layered like Pearl Cleage's What Looks Like Crazy on an Ordinary Day, this title will appeal to all readers of contemporary fiction." — starred, Library Journal

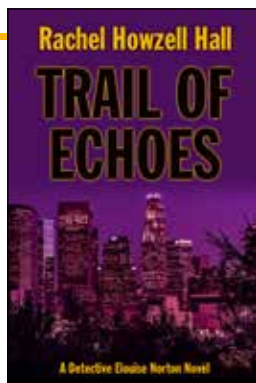

Newlyweds Celestial and Roy embody both the American Dream and the New South. He's a young executive; she's an artist on the brink of an exciting career. But as they begin life together, they're ripped apart by circumstances neither could have imagined. This stirring love story is a profoundly insightful look into the hearts and minds of three people who are at once bound and separated by forces beyond their control. A masterpiece of storytelling, it looks deep into the souls of people who must reckon with the past while moving forward — with hope and pain — into the future.

THE HAZEL WOOD

Melissa AlbertHOT TITLE AT THE 2016 FRANKFURT BOOK FAIR*MOVIE RIGHTS TO COLUMBIA PICTURES

"Simultaneously wondrous and horrific, dreamlike and bloody, lyrical and creepy, exquisitely haunting and casually, brutally cruel. Not everybody lives, and certainly not 'happily ever after.'" — starred, Kirkus Reviews

Welcome to The Hazel Wood — the fiercely stunning contemporary fantasy debut everyone is raving about . . .

Seventeen-year-old Alice and her mother have spent most of Alice's life on the road, always a step ahead of the uncanny bad luck biting at their heels. But when Alice's grandmother, the reclusive author of a cult-classic book of pitch-dark fairy tales, dies alone on her estate, the Hazel Wood, Alice learns how bad her luck can really get: Her mother is stolen away — by a figure who claims to come from the Hinterland, the cruel supernatural world where her grandmother's stories are set.

"The simplicity of Newbery Medalist Applegate's graceful novel contrasts powerfully with the prejudice it confronts. . . . It's a distinctive call for kindness, delivered by an unforgettable narrator." — starred, Publishers Weekly

Red is an oak tree who is many rings old. Red is the neighborhood "wishtree" — people write their wishes on pieces of cloth and tie them to Red's branches. Along with her crow friend Bongo and other animals who seek refuge in Red's hollows, this "wishtree" watches over the neighborhood. You might say Red has seen it all. Until a new family moves in. Not everyone is welcoming, and Red's experiences as a wishtree are more important than ever. Funny, deep, warm, and nuanced, Wishtree is Katherine Applegate at her very best, writing from the heart.

RETURN TO HUCKLEBERRY HILL

The Matchmakers of Huckleberry Hill

Jennifer Beckstrand

"The characters are sweet and caring, and they live for meddling in the love lives of their family. The plot moves at a fast pace, and the subplots add to the overall storyline without overwhelming it. Beckstrand is a talented writer with a great sense of humor." — RT Book Reviews (4 stars)

When it comes to matchmaking, Huckleberry Hill, Wisconsin's unstoppable octogenarians Anna and Felty Helmuth never seem to run out of opportunities — or grandchildren. Reuben Helmuth is plenty bitter. His best friend John King is engaged to the girl Reuben loved. Humiliated, he flees to his grandparents in Wisconsin, where he'll find comfort. He enjoys wallowing in his misery — until John's sister, Fern, shows up.

YOU WERE THERE BEFORE MY EYES

Maria Riva

NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLING AUTHOR

"The oft-heard truth that America is a country of immigrants comes alive in Riva's grand tale. . . . A timely and riveting reminder of the often-overlooked lessons of history in this vital tapestry of American immigrant life." — starred, Booklist

Sweeping, panoramic, and richly imagined, You Were There Before My Eyes is the epic and intimate story of a young woman who chafes at the stifling routine and tradition of her small, turn-of-the-century Italian village. When an opportunity presents itself for her to emigrate to America, her hunger for escape compels her to leave everything behind for the gleaming promises that await her and her young husband in Mr. Ford's factories.

THE DRY

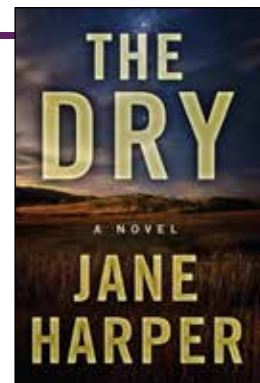

Jane Harper

"A stunner . . . It's a small-town, big-secrets page-turner with a shocker of an ending . . ."

—starred, Booklist

After getting a note demanding his presence, Federal Agent Aaron Falk arrives in his hometown for the first time in decades to attend the funeral of his best friend, Luke. Twenty years ago when Falk was accused of murder, Luke was his alibi. But now more than one person knows they didn't tell the truth back then, and Luke is dead.

GINNY MOON

Benjamin Ludwig

"A heartwarming and unforgettable page-turner."

—starred, Booklist

Ginny Moon is mostly your average teenager. But Ginny is autistic. So what's important to her might seem a bit different. After being traumatically taken from her abusive birth mother and moved around to different homes, Ginny has finally found her "forever home" — a safe place with parents who will love and nurture her. This is exactly what all foster kids are hoping for, right? But Ginny has other plans. She'll steal and lie and exploit the good intentions of those who love her — anything it takes to get back what's missing in her life. She'll even try to get herself kidnapped.

THE STRANGER IN THE WOODS THE EXTRAORDINARY STORY OF THE LAST TRUE HERMIT

Michael Finkel

NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLER

"[A] fascinating account of Knight's renunciation of humanity . . . deeply compelling."

—Publishers Weekly

Many people dream of escaping modern life, but most will never act on it. This is the remarkable true story of a man who lived alone in the woods of Maine for 27 years, making this dream a reality — not out of anger at the world, but simply because he preferred to live on his own.
