NUKE WATCH

ANTI-TERRORIST TRAINING OFFERED BY DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY

Security officials from Department of Energy (DOE) facilities which use or store nuclear weapons or materials are now receiving new anti-terrorism training in the use of anti-aircraft and automatic weapons and explosives. The special training is offered at the Clinton Air Force Base in New Mexico. According to "Nuke Watch," a DOE publication, the facility's military course teaches the use of conventional and automatic weapons and explosives, how to respond after bombings and how to negotiate with terrorists and hijackers. The facilities in part of a plan to help nuclear power plant workers as all facilities involved in the handling of nuclear materials or weapons.

Children of War Tour

The Children of War Tour, planned for November 10-20 of this year, will bring together 10 young people from war zones around the world for a nationwide tour of public schools, religious and community centers.

The tour is being sponsored by the Religious Taskforce for the Registration of Children, and will bring together children ranging in age from 12 to 17 from Northern Ireland, the Middle East, East Africa, Eastern Europe, Cambodia, the Marshall Islands, East and West Germany and the Soviet Union. The tour will also include a visit to the White House.

Group will tour the US for two weeks, visiting 100 and traveling with religious groups and community members about peace and conflict. The tour is in cooperation with the Religious Taskforce for the Registration of Children, 85 South Main Street, New York, NY 10002.
