We are currently trialling this archive

Associated Press Collections Online: European Bureaus Collection
Search for this archive on your library database

Number of pages: Over 659,000
Number of years covered: 65

This fully searchable digital archive provides access to award-winning news coverage, covering the research needs of a variety of disciplines. From Vienna, Prague and Warsaw, the AP covered Eastern Europe during World War II and the Cold War, and this collection contains rare wire copy that records the declining influence of the Soviet Union, the last days of the Iron Curtain, and the political and economic restructuring of the former Soviet satellites.

For information on this archive, visit gale.com/discoverapeurope