Associated Press Collections Online:

News Features & Internal Communications

Search for this archive on the library database

www.gale.com/exploreapnews

1994
A Season For Almost All Things

The Asia Log
JULY 12 - 18, 1970

AN ERA ENDS...

Once upon a time, when the world and even the Vietnam war seemed simpler, Peter Arnett and Horst Faas arrived on the Saigon scene.

That was way back in the spring of 1968. They stayed on to become (though both would live legends of the foreign press corps in South Vietnam). Their new assignments was to write about the war that followed.

The war...the major battles, too many to recall; the ambushes, the terror and the violence.

Vietnam they had been it all...the political, the political, the political, the political, the political, the political.

The war...the major battles, too many to recall; the ambushes, the terror and the violence.

Vietnam they had been it all...the political, the political, the political, the political, the political, the political. 