In combination with powerful search technologies, Gale Primary Sources brings the thoughts, words, and actions of past centuries into the present. For nearly two decades, we have been preserving and extending access to scholarly research materials and content from prestigious source libraries through our ground-breaking digitisation program.

To advance research even further, the data from these archives can be explored in new ways using Gale Digital Scholar Lab, a cloud-based digital scholarship platform developed in close partnership with leaders across the digital humanities.

CREATE CONTENT SETS
The Gale Digital Scholar Lab gives users the ability to create custom content sets containing as many as 10,000 documents. Users can search across their library’s Gale Primary Sources holdings and seamlessly select documents to be added to their custom content set.

ANALYSE CONTENT SETS
Users can analyse and interpret the data with the text analysis and visualisation tools built into the Lab. Digital humanities analysis methods include: Named Entity Recognition, Topic Modelling, Parts of Speech, and more.

MANAGE AND SHARE
Users’ content sets remain saved in the Gale Digital Scholar Lab allowing them to manage their research for long term projects. Users can publish their outputs with confidence retaining all intellectual property rights and are free to share analysis outputs.

The Making of the Modern World archive is available within the Lab, providing a new lens to explore these unique documents, and empowering researchers to generate world-shattering conclusions and outcomes.

Don’t miss out on this comprehensive digital primary source collection. Learn more about the programme at gale.com/momw1.
UNCOVER THE DYNAMICS OF A RAPIDLY-CHANGING WORLD

THE AGE OF UNDERSTANDING

The Making of the Modern World (Part I, The Goldsmiths’-Kress Collection, 1450-1850) is a fundamental resource to the study of world history. Home to over 12 million pages of fully-searchable rare primary source materials, Part I allows new insights to be revealed in the expanding world trade, the emergence of modern capitalism, and the development of world history. Sourced mainly from the world-renowned Goldsmiths’ Library of Economic Literature at the University of London, England and the Kress Collection of Business and Economics at the Harvard Business School, this collection follows the development of the modern capitalist world through the lens of trade and wealth – the driving force behind many of the major historical events during the period (1450-1850).

In abundance of rare books and primary source materials, many of which are the only known copy of the work, cover a variety of subjects, extending its reach well beyond economic history to encompass Law, Geography, Politics and International Relations, Social History, Business and Women’s Studies.

WHY IS THIS ARCHIVE IMPORTANT?

- It offers diverse viewpoints on the people, places, and events that shaped the modern world, presenting a well-rounded historical perspective.
- It offers users to uncover the inner thoughts and feelings of some of the period’s most respected intellectuals, including John Stuart Mill, Thomas Paine, and Daniel Defoe.
- It enables 24/7 access to rare and hard-to-find primary sources, many of which are the only known copies.
- It enables users to discover new insights into the expansion of world trade, the Industrial Revolution, and the development of modern capitalism.
- It allows users to follow the development of the modern western world through the lens of trade and wealth – the driving force behind many of the major historical events during the period (1450-1850).
- It enables users to uncover the inner thoughts and feelings of some of the period’s most respected intellectuals, including John Stuart Mill, Thomas Paine, and Daniel Defoe.
- It offers users to uncover the inner thoughts and feelings of some of the period’s most respected intellectuals, including John Stuart Mill, Thomas Paine, and Daniel Defoe.
- It enables 24/7 access to rare and hard-to-find primary sources, many of which are the only known copies.

A MULTIDISCIPLINARY RESOURCE

The content in The Making of the Modern World: Part I, 1450-1850 spans a wide range of subjects, including:

- War and Diplomacy
- Gender Relations and Family
- Theology and Philosophy
- Art and Music
- Crime and the Justice System
- Finance and Economics
- Encompassing lesser-known parishal towns as well as vast kingdoms, the sources come from all over the world.
- Published in seventeen languages, two-thirds of the collection is in English, with thousands of texts in French, German, and Italian.

Utilize The Making of the Modern World’s interface to search the database by keyword, year of publication, and more.

A FRESH PERSPECTIVE

Gain new insights into a range of topics:

- European colonialism: the ‘Amboyna massacre’
- A labourer event in the formative stages of European colonial company: the so-called ‘Amboyna massacre’ of 1464 understood the growing tension between the Dutch and English Jesuits in Asia. The Dutch East India Company sought to establish their use of practicable geographical knowledge and understanding in the ‘Amboyna massacre’ against the English East India Company, who they accused of ‘incredible’ ‘businessmen’s’ tax.
- Medieval economics: One of the earliest examples of historical works, antiquarian Thomas Madox became a pioneer of the field of public history and antiquarianism, and was made a Member of the Eschever of the Kings of England, in Ten Periods in 1711. This makes his book a comprehensive account of the administration and records of the Eschever from the Norman conquest to the time of Edward I, a core resource for the study of medieval economic history.
- Technological progress: the development of the railway. Typifying the insatiable desire among nineteenth-century thinkers to understand their rapidly-changing world, scientific William Harding was eager to unpick what he regarded as the secret of those who believed the future was a world of iron and steam. He began with the question of how far the railway had revolutionized distance and speed. In recognition of his pioneering science, he was awarded a statue of the Royal Society in 1857.

PREEMINENT THINKERS

Get inside the minds of some of the world’s leading intellectuals:

- Thomas Paine
- Mary Wollstonecraft
- Thomas Jefferson
- Adam Smith

A DIVERSE RANGE OF CONTENT:

- Books
- Serials
- Pamphlets
- Periodicals
- Broadsides
- Proclamations

Find out more about The Making of the Modern World: Part I, 1450-1850 at gale.com/momw1

Find out more about The Making of the Modern World: Part I, 1450-1850 at gale.com/momw1

Find out more about The Making of the Modern World: Part I, 1450-1850 at gale.com/momw1

400 YEARS OF GLOBAL ECONOMIC, POLITICAL AND SOCIAL TRANSFORMATION