NEED TO KNOW
WORLD WAR II AND THE RISE OF AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE
Nicholas Reynolds
NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLING AUTHOR

The entire vast modern American intelligence system can be traced back to the dire straits that Britain faced at the end of June 1940. Before World War II, the U.S. had no organization to recruit spies and steal secrets or launch secret campaigns against enemies overseas. It was only through Winston Churchill's determination to mobilize the U.S. to help in their fight against Hitler that the first American spy service was born. In Need to Know, former CIA analyst and trained historian Nicholas Reynolds explores the birth, infancy, and adolescence of modern American intelligence. In this first definitive account, Reynolds combines little-known history and gripping spy stories to analyze the American codebreakers' and spies' origins and contributions to Allied victory, revealing how they laid the foundation for the Cold War, and all other conflicts to come.

PRISONERS OF THE CASTLE

AN EPIC STORY OF SURVIVAL AND ESCAPE FROM COLDITZ, THE NAZIS' FORTRESS PRISON

Ben Macintyre

During World War II, the Germans used Colditz Castle to hold the most defiant Allied prisoners. For years, these prisoners made legendary

Its population represented a society in miniature, full of heroes and traitors, class conflicts and secret alliances, and the full range of human joy and despair. In Macintyre's telling, Colditz's most famous names, like the indomitable Pat Reid, share glory with lesser known but equally remarkable characters like Indian doctor Birendranath Mazumdar, whose ill treatment, hunger strike, and eventual escape read like fiction; Florimond Duke, America's oldest paratrooper and least successful secret agent; and Christopher Clayton Hutton, the brilliant inventor employed by British intelligence to manufacture covert escape aids for POWs.
